“ When you come to Hua-Hin, we suggest you taste the following dishes.

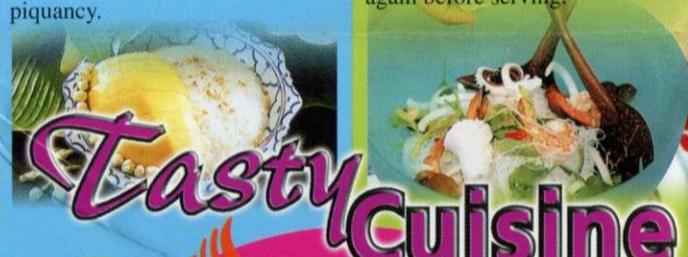

KHAO NIAOW MA-MUANG

Steamed sticky rice topped with coconut milk cream eaten with mango. Thai people call Khao neao ma-mong is a typical Thai dish. It's a delicious. Mango is a sweet flavour fruit. When it's mango season (March until May) in Thailand, the thinly sliced mangoes melt in your mouth, the sticky rice adds a bit of chewiness, and the coconut milk soaks it all in richness. A bit of chilli sugar is added for that extra bit of piquancy.

SALADS are a popular dish enjoyed by all levels of society.

Salad are eaten with steamed or sticky rice, which helps soothe the palate if the salad is particularly spicy.

Yam Woon Sen Salad made with warm glass noodles and a number of different meats and seafood known as Yam Woon Sen. Soak the glass noodles in hot water until soft. Drain and cut into short lengths. Combine the soy bean sauce with the lime juice, sugar. Add the sliced shallots and spring onions and stir again before serving.

You have tasted on Naresdamri rd. at Meekaruna restaurant, Naresdamri restaurant, Ketsarin Seafood, Blue Elephant Terrace, Pizza Corner, Lo Stivale, Bella Roma, Sweden Restaurant on Poolsuk rd. and on Phetkasem rd. at Satukan Square. It's very delicious & reasonable prices.

SOM TAM In spicy fruit salads, especially mango and papaya that are still green to impart a crunchy and slightly sour taste. They range from the humble green papaya salad called Som Tam. Place the garlic and chillies in a clay mortar and pound them lightly with a wooden pestle to bruise them slightly. Add the papaya, tomatoes, string beans, shrimp and peanuts to the mortar. Pound until the ingredients are lightly bruised. Then add the lime juice, fish sauce and palm sugar to the mortar. Continue to pound and mix with a spoon until the palm sugar has dissolved. Serve with fresh vegetables such as cabbage, string beans and water spinach.

MOO SATAY is sliced pork mixed with spices such as fennel before coconut cream is added. The fragrant pieces are then grilled before being spread a second time with coconut cream. The pork is delicious when eaten with a satay sauce of mixed cream and peanuts. A-chade sauce is a mixture of sliced cucumber, onion and chillies covered with vinegar. For those preferring the less spicy, this dish can be ordered without the sliced chillies and eaten with toast.

both in Thailand and abroad. With Pranburi being the main center for Pineapples, historically their leaves were treated as a waste product of the industry. However, during the last few years ways have been developed to process these strong fibered leaves, into a booming small village industry using local labor and environmentally friendly materials. The end result is the production of a wide range of local handicrafts such as picture frames, cards, containers, books, jewelry boxes. And a variety of processed fruits are a mainstay of business. Souvenir shops can be found in the town, Daymarket at Chatchai Market & Nightmarket at Dechanuchit rd. and Every weekend at Golden Place near King Palace 9.00 till 5 pm.

Shopping guide in Petchaburi

Sweets is a famous souvenir of this province. Examples are Morkang, Arlua and Sampannee (made from flour & sugar), Bah Bin (made from coconut, sugar & flour), Kanom Chan (a layered sweet made flour & sugar), Chaow Tan Chuerm (palm seed in thick syrup). So foy Thong, Thong Yip, Thong Yod. They are essentially confections of egg yolk and syrup, although with different methods of preparation, remain widely favoured Thai desserts or khanom. Khao Chare, rice served with ice and sweetened meat is a renowned local dish and is popular during the summer season as it cools you down.

Visitors are able to buy these sweets as souvenirs from sweet shops in town (near Khao Wang) and many well-known shop on both sides of Phetkasem road.

Lied squirrel. Dolphins are sometimes sighted in the coastal water. There are around 300 species of birds recorded seen in the park. The large number of species found in a relatively small area can be attributed to the unique diversity of habitat, and because the park is located on the east Asian/Australian flyway of birds. Migratory birds account for about half of the recorded species. Visitors can see the main attractions along the hiking trails that criss-cross the park. The Khao Karjom trail leads to the top of the tallest hill, near the center of the park. Steep trails lead to the fine beaches of Sam Phraya and Laem Sala or alternatively boats can be hired from Ban Bang Pu. A popular trip is the two-hour boat cruise along the KHAO DAENG CANAL, from near the park headquarters. Passing through mangroves and wetland habitats, visitors can see various species of birds and trees, the best time is in the early morning or late afternoon. The trip is most popular at sunset.

The park has three outstanding caves. PHRAYA NAKORN CAVE can be reached on foot from Ban Bang Pu or by boat. The trail is steep and rocky. Phraya Nakorn cave has two sinkholes, the roofs of which have collapsed allowing sunlight and rain to reach the floor, where trees have grown reaching for the ceiling. Phraya Nakorn Cave can be reached from Laem Sala beach, by a steep rocky trail, 430 meters long and rising to a height of 130 meters, taking about 30 minutes to climb. There are a couple more caves that are of interest. And a pavilion built for a visit by King Rama V in 1896. The cave was named for Phraya Nakorn, ruler of the city-state of Nakorn Si Thammarat, who inadvertently discovered it over 200 years ago when a gale forced his ship ashore.

Deep tunnels and interlinked chambers fill the Cave. You can rent a lamp to see the calcite-encrusted walls from the mineral laden water droplets, which glisten like diamonds, giving it the name CRYSTAL OR KAEW CAVE.

SAI CAVE is situated on a hill facing the ocean near the fishing village of Khung Ta Nod, the road to Khung Ta Nod ends at the base of the trail, 2.3 km. from the main road. A narrow sandy road, runs through the village along the seafront and vehicles can be left near the beginning of the trail. Lamps for exploring Sai Cave can be rented from villagers who wait at a shelter. A 20-minute climb gets you to the single large cavern to see calcified waterfalls.

Better is to charter a vehicle for around 300 baht for the whole trip. Forestry Department bungalows for 8 to 20 people or tents and equipment are available at the park headquarters or at Sam Phraya Beach. For advanced reservations contact KHAO SAM ROI YOD NATIONAL PARK Tambon Khao Daeng, Amphoe Kuiburi Prachaubkhirikhan 77150 Tel. 032-619 078
